stretch beyond

A website is an extremely important asset for a school, as it's usually the first thing a person will see when looking for, or researching a particular school. Enniskillen Integrated Primary School understand the importance of theirs and were keen, according to Jamie Johnston - ICT Coordinator, to make sure that it was colourful, child friendly and primary focused.

This would encourage staff, pupils and parents to fully utilise and engage with the website. Their decision to use Webanywhere's School Jotter 2 was based upon other school designs showcased in Webanywhere's portfolio.

"I love the colours and the style in which it is designed."

Enniskillen Integrated Primary School desired a site where they could control their own content, managing their own site internally. This would encourage staff, pupils and parents to fully utilise and engage with the website.

"We chose to move to School Jotter 2 for the functionality and control it gave us."

In addition, Enniskillen wanted the creative flexibility to ensure they got exactly what they wanted in terms of the website design. Listening to their needs, Webanywhere were able to provide a site that encapsulated the schools vision, rather than what a designer thought the school should have. Jamie goes on to say that Webanywhere took what the school wanted and executed it just how they envisioned.

“You’ve made this a very easy process and have ensured that I have got everything that I’ve wanted and needed. I have been extremely impressed all the way around.”

After a straightforward set-up process, which included training and regular contact with Webanywhere, Enniskillen Integrated Primary School had a school website that was bright, fun and easy to use. Jamie says that the customer service was fantastic, with all questions being answered and issues being resolved within a day.

“I completed my second training session on wednesday which went really well. I am really excited about the possibilities that the new system will provide.”

Now that the site is live, Enniskillen can share resources, information, news and pictures, creating an integrated school community for parents, teachers and children.

“The children are really excited about the new school website.”

About Webanywhere

Established in 2003, Webanywhere began as a school website design company. Since then we have expanded our product range to include VLEs, e-portfolios and other e-learning tools, alongside curricular content. We're an official Moodle Partner and Capita Technical Partner, as well as a Mahara Partner and Google Apps Authorised Reseller.

Our product range supports schools in improving key metrics such as pupil achievement, quality of teaching, effective leadership and behavioural standards. School Jotter, the name for our school websites, is simple and easy to use and allows schools to add to, and update, their own website easily and quickly.
